GWSS 365: Reproductive Rights and Wrongs

Dr. Susan Rensing
TuTh, 1:05 - 2:20 pm

SisterSong defines reproductive justice as "the human right to maintain personal bodily autonomy, have children, not have children, and parent the children we have in safe and sustainable communities." How have people in the past fought for these rights and how many of these rights are currently under threat? This course will explore contemporary reproductive politics within the historical context of struggles for reproductive justice in the United States and globally. Our readings will center the most marginalized and examine how women of color have fought for reproductive freedom, how LGBTQ folks and disabled people have fought for the right to parent and for bodily autonomy, and how the feminist health movement fought for medical knowledge and autonomy in birth.

This course fulfills the "Historical Perspectives" and "Human Diversity within the U.S." K-State 8 requirements
